DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 and 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weihrauch (5779610).

a. Weihrauch discloses an apparatus having a tubular core (11) fasteners (12), a cover (21&22), and velcro (which has both male and female fasteners see claim 5 , 9, and 19 as well as Summary of the invention).

b. In regard to the claim with regard to a male element being .3 mm and a female element being 4 mm, It would have been obvious because "a person of ordinary skill has good reason to pursue the known options within his or her technical grasp. If this leads to anticipated success, it is likely the product not of innovation but of ordinary skill and common sense.

c. In regard to the density of the elements male and female, the range of 30 to 150 per cm squared would have been obvious because the design incentives or market forces provided a reason to make an adaptation, and the invention resulted from application of the prior knowledge in a predictable manner. It is also noted that different densities of velcro patterns are old and well known in the art.

3. Claims 9-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weihrauch (5779610) as applied to claims 1 and 4-7 above, and further in view of Polzin et al (2002/0112810A1).

d. Weihrauch discloses except for spirally wound. Polzin et al discloses the claimed elements were known in the prior art and one skilled in the art could have combined the elements as claimed by known methods with no change in their respective functions and the combination would have yielded predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention. (see figs. 1-4)

e. In regard to the density of the elements male and female, synthetic resin would have been obvious because the design incentives or market forces provided a reason to make an adaptation, and the invention resulted from application of the prior knowledge in a predictable manner. It is also noted that selecting this material would be a matter of simple design choice..

4. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weihrauch (5779610) as applied to claims 1 and 4-7 above, and further in view of Yamaguchi (2003/0213083A1).

f. Weihrauch discloses except for heat fusing fibers. Yamaguchi discloses the heat fusing fibers and heat welding elements were known in the prior art and one skilled in the art could have combined the elements as claimed by known methods with no change in their respective functions and the combination would have yielded predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention. (see par.26-80)

Response to Arguments

- 1. Applicant's arguments filed 5/13/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
- 2. Applicant has amended the claims.
 - a. The amendment does not change the subject matter into anything different from the last set of claims. There are changes in the language but not changes that read over the prior art and instant rejection. The combination of rejected claims will not overcome the rejection at present. Therefore the rejection stands.

Conclusion

- 1. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
